About Workshop

SPSS statistics is a software package used for logical batched and non – batched statistical analysis. SPSS can take data from almost any type of file and use them to generate tabulated reports, charts and plots of distributions and trends, descriptive statistics and conduct complex statistical analysis.

How it is a benefit for research scholars?

Mainly for the research scholars who are versatile in their own core papers and quite weak in software part can prefer SPSS software for their further analysis as SPSS gives a perfect graphical representation and also an appropriate result for the data that has been entered. SPSS is just a drag and drop process which has almost all basic and some advanced statistical analysis which helps the research scholar to easily adapt to this software and can do the analysis part and attain their result.
