Dear Professionals, Welcome to FHSLA Conference 2022

Libraries worldwide are undergoing a significant change and transforming themselves as creative places offering new approaches to learning, knowledge generation, and sharing as well as dissemination of information.

Libraries are an integrated part of Science and Technology. Academic Institutions, Research and Development organizations, industries, and other institutions known for delivering the latest information are leading this change and are quickly adapting to the new ecosystem.

During the last few years, the higher education sector in India and outside, particularly in the area of Health & Medical Sciences, has significantly transformed. Specific emphasis has been given to improving the quality of teaching, learning, and research productivity. Simultaneously, the focus has also been shifted to innovation, incubation, capacity building, and collaboration between industry and academic Institutions in India.

The Govt. of India, under its Initiative of One India, One Subscription (OIOS), wants to negotiate with the world's biggest scientific publishers to set up nationwide subscriptions rather than many agreements with individual institutions. The success of the 'One India, One Subscription' proposal will depend on whether publishers agree to discounted rates. One of the most prominent scholarly publishers, Elsevier, noted that it looks forward to working with the research community but did not comment on whether they would be willing to negotiate such a deal, while Springer Nature, which publishes Nature, said it is open to discussions but had yet to receive a proposal regarding a country-level subscription.

In order to understand and navigate successfully through these developments and collectively address some of the challenges, the Central Library AIIMS Rishikesh, jointly with FHSLA, has proposed to organize a National Conference on Harnessing the Digital Space: "One India One Subscription" Initiative and Medical Librarians Perspective. The Conference aims to articulate Medical Librarian's perspective and generates inputs for successfully launching the "One Nation, One Subscription initiative" and negotiating with international publishers.

The objective of the Conference

The primary objective of the Conference is to understand how libraries are translating ideas into innovative services of excellence to create value for users and to the continuing success of libraries. It will provide an opportunity to library and information science professionals to share their experiences, ideas, research and knowledge for mutual benefit and also for policy planning for modernization and digitalization of medical libraries cost-effectively and efficiently.

Program Structure of the Conference

The Conference consists of multiple events and activities, including plenary sessions, Panel Discussions, Special lectures, poster presentations, book Exhibition, and Presentation by publishers besides the ceremonial Inaugural and Valedictory session.

Day 1: Registration, Inaugural Session, Keynote Address, Invited Lectures by Eminent Professionals, 3 Sub-themes sessions of paper presentations with Pecha-Kucha format (20 Slides – 20 Seconds per slide), and Poster Presentations. Inauguration of three days parallel Book Exhibition at Level-5.
