About the Seminar Topic

"Equality of access for all" is the main motto behind the effective public library services. The primary role of the public library is to meet the library and information needs of the community it serves. Public library services should be adapted considering different needs of the society. These services should be equitable and free from any ideological, political, social, religion and commercial pressure. Services should be flexible enough to adopt any kind of changes coming out from societal, technological or other unforeseen incidents of the future. Therefore, services of the public libraries may be considered as the information lifeline of the society. Public libraries should adopt the new trends and innovation in library services for sustaining themselves in future. The present conference will explore the trends and innovations in public library services in the Indian context.
